Homecoming Spirit Excites Campus

Students Must Select Queen

Once again it is time to prepare for the changing of the tiara, announcing the new reign of the 1968-69 Purdue Calumet Homecoming Queen.

Eleven girls have been nominated in Purdue Cal's third annual Homecoming Queen contest by various student clubs and organizations. But the final decision will be made when students cast their pennies, nickles, dimes, and quarters at the Penny Vote in the Food Lounge on Wed., Thurs., Dec. 11, 12 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Fri., Dec. 13, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

After the closing of the Penny Vote, the Business Office will count the "votes," tab the results, and convey the information in a sealed envelope. The envelope will be opened during the Fri., Dec. 13 game half-time, when Sue George, presiding 1967-68 Homecoming Queen, will crown the new queen.

The "votes" will help finance the winning car, float, and queen trophies.

As a prelude to the election, students will have an opportunity to meet and greet each of the eleven queen candidates at the Queen Convocation on Mon., Dec. 9, in Room 103 at 12:00 noon. Each queen candidate's escort will be speaking about his candidate's qualifications.

But who are the girls over which so much ado has so gladly been made?

Scope has hope for pert Bonnie Brady, a 5'5" freshman in nursing. Interested in horseback riding, sewing, reading, and dancing, Bonnie has green eyes and brown hair.

Marcella Clark, a 5'6 3/4" freshman theatre major, is Phi Kappa Theta's nomination. A 20-year-old, blue-green eyed blond, Marcella is active in the Purdue Cal Theatre Co. and the

Seniors Organize, Unify Class

The Senior Class of 1969 is the first to organize as a class and support Purdue Cal. The Senior Class has been defined as anyone with a classification of 7 or 8, whether they graduate in June 1969 or not. Associate Degree Nurses and only Technology students who are not continuing to a four year degree will be included.

The Seniors have organized for definite purposes; namely, to present the Senior Class as a distinct, unified group; to be leaders in the school; and to prove that these goals can be accomplished. We would like to encourage underclassmen to also seek their identity in their individual classes and as Purdue Calumet students.

We will be setting traditions that will be carried on throughout the history of Purdue Calumet. SENIORS will be wearing "cords" and derbies during Homecoming week and at all home games. Limiting this tradition to Seniors will give the under-classmen something to look forward to. We are backing Homecoming by entering seven cars in the Homecoming parade, and by nominating Barbara Provinzano, a Senior majoring in Elementary Education, as our queen. Seniors plan to attend the Homecoming game in full force, because we believe in Piper Power.

Lines of communication will be established throughout the Senior Class concerning student events, graduation, graduate school, and employment opportunities. We are trying to stimulate interest in Purdue Cal activities, specifically, Astron sales, the annual semiformal dance, and the proposed spring festival.

Officers have been elected: President, Alan Jenvey, Supervision Technology; Vice-President, Tom (TR) Reinert, Speech; Secretary, Barbara Rinsema, Nursing Technology; Treasurer, Harry Tice, Industrial Supervision. The class faculty advisors are: Mr. Schulke, of the Speech

Parade Begins Festive Activities

The biggest Homecoming parade Purdue Calumet has ever experienced will begin assembling at 2:00 next Friday in the University parking lot for appraisal by students, faculty, administration, and visitors.

Judges for the floats and cars include such well-known names as Dean Carl Elliott, Dean Mel DeGraff, Mr. Perkins, Mrs. Korlin, Mrs. Whitehead, Mr. Andrews, and Miss Stark.

The judging will be based on how well participants follow the theme of Homecoming, Jinx the Demons, and how well they carried out various themes on the floats themselves. The construction and decoration itself will also be under close scrutiny.

By 3:30 p.m. judging will be complete and the vehicles will move out to 169th Street. Going west, the parade will come to Indianapolis Blvd. and turn south. Here merchants and community members can view the splendor the students at Purdue Cal have put forth for all.

The parade will turn east at 173rd Street and proceed to the National Guard Armory for preparations of further activities.

Lafayette Senate Passes Rights Bill

by Gail Gross

Monday, November 18, the governing body of the faculty of Purdue Lafayette, the University Senate, approved the proposed Bill of Student Rights.

The revised bill now will go back to the Student Senate, will be submitted to a student referendum, and then will be submitted to the Board of Trustees for action concerning certain legal questions which are expected to be resolved by the trustees.

The bill consists of a preamble and 21 articles dealing with stu-

Much has already been said about student commitment and involvement, or the lack of it, at Purdue Calumet. A recent student editorial in the Calumet "Boilermaker" (Nov. 15, 1968) proposed "Extras Incorporated" which would "guarantee students ways of finding themselves."

The purpose of "Extras" included such statements as "... a university should be more than just a place to learn facts and dates; a university should help the individual find himself and understand others ... experiences in a variety of fields and subjects which will make each student a more complete individual ... an experience to make students aware of themselves and the world around them."

I strongly endorse the philosophy of "Extras." In fact, such a mission should be the very essence of a university "education."

I disagree, however, the ideas that such purposes would need to be "extra" and that the solution is to add another extra-curricular activity.

Would it not be fair at this time to ask a few questions of students, faculty and administrators?

To those students who deplore the apathy and lack of student commitment and involvement and to those students who say there is nothing at Purdue Calumet in which to get involved—Where are you looking?

At the present time at Purdue Calumet there are several activities, all of which could be improved; there are several student organizations whose mission is being fulfilled to "less than quality" degree; and there are student clubs, both on and off campus, whose noble purposes are being realized to only a limited degree.

The need for student leadership, participation, and creativity at Purdue Calumet is an urgent one. Do you really need another "extra" activity in order to become aware and involved?

Would it be fair to ask faculty members to consider their students' reactions? Is the students' analysis of the situation a valid one? Is most of what takes place in a college classroom irrelevant and without meaning to the student's life? How do we react to the continuing demand, each year a little stronger, for relevance in higher education?

To those of us who "profess" and who face our students daily—how do we react to the "charge" of "Extras Incorporated?" WHAT HAVE WE DONE LATELY?

The American Association of University Professors (AAUP) at Purdue Calumet has a stated mission of "vigorous devotion to academic standards and ideals (improvement of teaching, responsibilities to students) and to faculty welfare (faculty salaries, school and/or its policies. One that in my opinion is voiced much too often is the complaint that there is nothing to do around the school that interests the students. I say that it has to be left up to the individual student to make up his mind.

There are numerous clubs, fraternities and sororities constantly interested in the academic and recreational life of each student attending our university. Supporting the dances and other activities given by the various clubs will produce interest and create a sense of belonging which are prerequisites for school spirit which many students lack, unfortunately. College is not just a means of higher education to obtain better jobs and higher pay, it is to be used as a means of learning to get along with and work with the kind of people that surround you for your entire life. The best way to do this is to join clubs and support activities—be a part of something—and most of all remember it is the students that make a school what it is.

What has the AAUP done concerning the improvement of teaching or the responsibility of the university to the student? What will be the reaction, and the subsequent action, of the AAUP to the students' quest for meaning in their college experiences?

To the administrators and instructional leaders at Purdue

Calumet—the question of relevance in higher education is being asked again. What is to be the mission of our university in this time of monumental change in our society? To what extent will students be involved in the decisions affecting them?

To all of us—students, faculty, and administrators—WHAT HAVE YOU DONE LATELY?

To Run Or Not To Run

by Janice G. Salters

My name is Janice Salters and I am one of approximately 800 freshmen attending Purdue's Calumet Campus. When I began attending school in the fall, there was the same routine of getting to know your professors and making new friends—but even with all the new and interesting people I met, there still seemed to be something missing.

The last days of September brought elections to the Student Congress for representatives of the four classes. There was to be one for each hundred students in the student body. Since I was new and didn't know anyone, I thought I would vote for the person with the nicest sounding name or maybe the one with the prettiest poster—even when I came to my senses and realized how silly it was to put someone into office on these qualifications I discovered that there were many others making this mistake.

That same afternoon a friend of mine asked me why I didn't run for Freshman Senator. I could think of a hundred flimsy excuses but no good ones, so I decided to run.

In the days that followed, I went through the necessary channels with petitions, "sales talk" to small groups of people and on election day I was voted into office. The succeeding weeks brought me a new interest in college. Instead of just a cup of coffee and idle talk in the lounge, I now had a sense of belonging and really being a part of the university that I attended.

Occasionally the Student Congress will have what is referred to as a Gripe Session which a student has the opportunity to voice his complaints about the

by Jan Barancyk

Hey! Have you heard? The campuses of Purdue Cal, Indiana, and St. Joe are trying to get together. Each campus is very interested in finding out what's going on at the other two. As a matter of fact, they are not just interested in knowing what's happening, but perhaps in participating with each other in some of their activities.

The truth of it is, there have been attempts made to promote a sense of cooperation and friendliness between the three campuses for quite some time now. For instance, in the papers, articles are being run telling about different events sponsored by the different colleges. Also, meetings, with representatives from all three campuses are held regularly.

And, to continue the effort, a joint action in the form of a fund-raising Christmas Drive has been planned. This Drive will last from Dec. 19 through Dec. 22, and proceeds will go to Trade Winds, a rehabilitation center for handicapped children. There will be a rally Saturday morning, Dec. 21, at 9:00 a.m. All those interested in participating are to meet in the parking lot by the Technology Building. At 10:00, you will disperse and leave for the different assigned areas. Pins, cans, and some sort of token or leaflet will be furnished by Trade Winds.

A dance has been scheduled for Thursday night, Dec. 19, from 9:00-12:00 p.m., in the Food Lounge. It will be on a personal donation basis and money will go towards the drive. The Mutonbourg Court Chip will play.

After the drive ends on Sunday, Dec. 22, the total funds collected will be presented to Trade Winds at a formal dinner that evening.

Once again, the idea of bringing the three schools together should be stressed. Either by direct involvement in projects such as this drive, or by being informed of each other's activities and events will enable us to be on more familiar terms.

urday, February 8. During this period the Registrations Office will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Since the class divisions are closed according to the number of vacancies, it will be to your advantage to register early.

Students Take Advantage Of Advanced Registration

Advance registration for the spring semester will continue from Monday, December 2 until Friday, December 20. Students are encouraged to take advantage of advance registration and to promptly make their appointments with their academic advisors. Early scheduling will enable the student to choose the class and time he desires before the divisions are filled and closed.

To register the student should first obtain a schedule of classes and the registration forms from the Registration Office, room 71. The schedule must be approved by the assigned academic advisor before it is returned to the Registration Office.

In January the student will receive a statement of fees and payment may be made by mail. It is important to note that your registration is not complete until you have paid your fees.

On Tuesday, January 28, from 4 to 7 p.m., there will be a drop/add session for students who have registered in advance and have paid their fees. Students will be able to adjust their schedules and have first choice of classes before Delayed Registration begins.

At Delayed Registration, students who did not participate in the advance registration will be able to register in the classes still open. Delayed Registration will be on Wednesday and Thursday, January 29 and 30, from 3 till 7 p.m.

After 8:00 a.m. on Monday, February 3, there will be a late registration fee charged to registering students. The Registration Office will receive late registrations until 11:00 a.m. on Sat-

Congress Holds Gripe Session

The Student Congress has initiated a series of gripe sessions held in the food lounge every week. Wednesday, November 20, saw Ken Goodwin, Congress President, leading the discussion.

Card playing regulations and Homecoming activities were the major topics. Assisting Goodwin during the session were several class senators. All Congress members present encouraged students to ask questions they had concerning their campus.

A second gripe session began at noon the following Monday, November 25. The different time permitted more of the Student Congress Cabinet to attend. Although not as heavily attended as the last one, this session made several advancements.

Senators present introduced themselves and acquainted the students with the various committees of Congress. Coordinator Wayne DeGoey, Sophomore Senator, then opened the floor for gripes.

Students asked several questions concerning the allocation of fee, committee membership, and student involvement. One conclusion reached was students themselves must feel an association with Purdue Cal.

Closing the session, DeGoey commented students should make every effort to use the lines of communication the Congress has established to let the senators know their desires. These lines include the Gripe Box, attending the Congress meetings, and talking to class senators.

Congress plans to hold future gripe sessions at weekly intervals in the food lounge. All available senators and cabinet members will attend. Goodwin commented that he hopes and all students with a gripe will come and voice it to the Congress.

The bill gives students the right to present speakers of their choice on the campus.

In a lengthy session, each of the articles was discussed separately. Nearly all amendments presented on the various articles were defeated.

Ft. Wayne Group Amends A.R.C.

The recent student government conference at the Purdue-Indiana University Fort Wayne campus approved an amended version of the constitution for the Association of Regional Campuses.

The government conference held here last spring initiated the idea for the association. The participating schools felt the need for an organization to coordinate inter-campus activities. The conference appointed a committee which wrote a proposed constitution.

Each student government of regional campuses then acted upon the article and sent representatives to the Fort Wayne conference. Discussion upon various aspects of the constitution

The conference then accepted the constitution as ammended. Now each participating campus will have to review the changes and ratify the new constitution. Copies of the proposal will be available in the Student Congress office soon.

Intramural Basketball Offers Exercise And Enjoyment

by David Ericksen

For over 100 boys at Cal winter means basketball, not varsity basketball, but intramural basketball. Intramural basketball is a great way to get exercise and have fun at the same time.

Here at Cal there are two intramural basketball leagues; the Boilermaker league (6 teams) and the Piper league (7 teams).

In early Boilermaker league standings the Raiders, Meteors, and PCAC were undefeated, with the Underdogs, Incredibles and Greven's Gorillas winless.

In the Piper league, the Establishment (faculty), and the Extensions were undefeated. The Hijackers, Strange Dwarfs, and 69ers were all battling for 3rd place with 1-1 records and Lager Supreme's and the Wildcats were winless.

Leading scorers to date in the Boilermaker league have been: Morgan (for the Meteors), Porter and Barnett (PCAC) and Braun (Raiders). The Piper league has been paced by: Tokoly (Hijackers), Vaughn (69ers), Funster, Weingart (both Dwarfs), Mitchell (Extensions) and Banks (Lager Supremo's).

Although, surprisingly the quality of play in both leagues is pretty fair. Many of the boys playing Intramural basketball were starters on high school teams and more than a few were ALL CONFERENCE. Of course there are a couple weak teams, but on the whole competition is fairly rough.

Intramural teams play a 12 game schedule that ends in late winter with a tourney determining the champion.

2 Pledge Classes Join To Hold Slave Auction

The Pi Delta Phi pledge class held a slave auction in conjunction with the pledge class of Phi Kappa Theta fraternity. The slave auction was held in the food lounge on Friday, November 22nd. The slaves that were sold were required to work the following Monday for their masters.

The sorority actives and pledges have been busy formulating plans for Homecoming. They have worked on their float and cars, and plan to cheer in the Booster Club section at the

Pledges End 9 Week Ordeal; Now Phi Kappa Theta Brothers

After some nine weeks of grueling, tedious, brick carrying, the pledges of Phi Kappa Theta, Purdue Calumet, finally graduated into the ranks of Brotherhood during the second Neophyte initiation held for Gamma Omega. The formal and religious ceremony, held at the Gary Savings and Loan Trustee Room, marked the final stages of Gamma Omega's desires of becoming a Chartered Colony of Phi Kappa Theta and finally a full fledged Active Chapter with the reserved power of initiating other colonies and affiliates.

The nine week period consisted of nothing more than a character test during which the manners, habits and working knowledge of all the initiates were evaluated and directed along the lines of Brotherhood and Fraternalism. When asked about the Pledge Class of 68, President Joe Shimko commented, "I can't say they're the best pledge class we've ever had, because they're our first. But the classes to follow will have to go a long way to top them." Following the initiation there was a party held in honor of the pledges and "light refreshments" were served.

The pledges, or neophytes, will now be working with the rest of the Chapter in petitioning National for full Chapter status, and will in all probability receive this standing within two weeks. If so, Gamma Omega will have become the first Affiliate Chapter to ever reach such a position in such a short time.

Fraternalism, Brotherhood, Scholastics; all good terms, and eighteen new Brothers of Phi Kappa Theta will vow to that. As a matter of fact, they did just that, for a lifetime, last Friday.

Holicky Shows Frosh Library

by Diane Olsen

What could be worse than trying to find information for a term paper when you do not know anything about the library? Well, Mr. B. Holicky is trying to help the Freshman English students to solve this problem. He has given eight lectures to the classes whose teachers ask for this help.

The purpose, Mr. Holicky stated, is to introduce English 101 students to the periodical indexes, i.e., Readers Guide to Periodical Literature, Humanities and Social Sciences Index, Essay and General Literature Index, and the Book Review Digest. The classroom lecture consists of telling the students how to use the card catalogue by author, title, and subject, and how to locate the periodicals in the library through the use of the periodical catalogue.

The tour of the library shows where the card catalogue is, where the periodical indexes can be found, where the unbound periodicals are, and the call number system, and lay-outs of the library. Mr. Holicky also explains the library loan rules and how to request books from the Lafayette campus.

Mr. Holicky assists student in her research in the reference area of the library.

The whole lecture only takes fifty minutes, and it pays off in many good papers and good grades.

Karrolle Coffee House Offers Singing, Poetry, Discussions

Although entertainment is provided, it is only a small part of the program. Much of the night consists of discussions with authorities on various topics. Entertainment is in the form of folk singing and poetry reading. Usually there is about two hours of entertainment per night. Karrolle also has private discussion areas for those with very personal problems they would like to discuss.

Karrolle is located in Highland at 2923 Jewette Street in the basement of the old Our Lady of Grace church. It is open to the public Saturdays and Sundays from 7:00 on.

As one enters the door of Karrolle he is greeted by friendly faces who introduce themselves and their colleagues. He is then taken on a tour of the coffee house. He is seated and immediately served a large tray of hot popcorn. If he prefers to remain alone, he may do so. Otherwise, he is soon joined by staff and other interested persons in a discussion of a topic appealing to him. No topic is too general or too personal. In the meantime he is surrounded by music from Simon and Garfunkle, and the Beatles. At 8:30, the first entertainment session begins. It may be a singer, poet, or an authority on some subject.

He is later involved in friendship and happiness as he shares himself with those around him. It is hoped that he leaves Karrolle a little happier, and a better person.

Webster's dictionary defines Karrolle as a study built on an inner wall by a window. The staff of Karrolle Coffee House believes that this is the type of atmosphere they wish to create. One of warmth, intimacy, and friendship. The purpose of Karrolle is communication. Communication between persons of all ages. Although the coffee house is aimed primarily at college students, it is not uncommon to find mature high school students and adults on the wrong side of thirty present.

The motto for Karrolle is "Happiness is the way you make me laugh inside." Karrolle provides an atmosphere for discussion of current issues or of personal matters for the more intimately inclined.

Unlike most "coffee houses," Karrolle has the true coffee house atmosphere, one of communications and friendship, rather than that of a hangout or a nightclub.

Extra's Incorporated Offers All

"Extra's" can provide the students with companionship, . . .

. . . and help the student find his identity as a person."

Dear Students,

It is up to you, the students at Purdue Cal, to make "Extras Incorporated" what it should be. If done properly "Extras" can provide the students with companionship, recreation and constructive activities that would challenge their intellect and help the individual student find his identity as a person.

They would also develop a better relationship with the faculty, a relationship that would relax the tensions running between them.

Students, your help is needed to make Purdue Cal a university, not a glorified high school. Upperclassmen could donate their knowledge to tutor the incoming students. The underclassmen, as they advance, can also help the newer students. No student can fail to see the advantage of a good tutoring program.

Students, you have complained loud and long about the lack of activities offered at Purdue Calumet. Complain no longer. Take action.

No student who wants to achieve an "education" in the true sense of the word can afford to be apathetic and stagnant. An education is a self-knowledge, a sensitivity towards the world, a feeling of belonging, of being part of something worthwhile.

Being prepared for an education is fine. The sad truth is that many students that do finish college are lacking, not academically, but in self-knowledge.

Students, do something. The Boilermaker staff has worked hard to create the idea of "Extras." But dreams come true only when people care enough to make them realities.

Students, for your own good make a dream come true. Care a little and do something. Express your ideas to Mr. Perkins, Rm. I 151 E, or the Student Congress, Rm. I 170 C.

The Editors

Dear Student Congress,

Purdue Calumet needs action. As members of Student Congress you must supply the necessary instruments to make Purdue Calumet an "action" school.

You have been approached with a new project, "Extras Incorporated," which if successful will be the cure to apathy and stagnation prevalent in the campus. You, members of the Student Congress, can help not only by the actual physical beginning of the project, but by creating better campus community relationships.

The Editors

"Purdue Calumet needs action."

Purdue Cal Opportunity To Expand

Dear Faculty,

"Extras Incorporated," a new organization formed to provide the student at Purdue Cal with cultural and recreational activities is not only concerned with the students, but also with the faculty.

Purdue Calumet needs better student-faculty relations; too often the students have come to regard their professors as cold and impersonal, only teaching for a pay check, only caring for a student as an object to be assigned a grade. And too often the professors, finding themselves wrongly stereotyped, have come to regard the students as numbers.

The fault does not lie with either the profs or the students, but rather on a lack of communication on both sides. The chance to amend past mistakes has come.

"Extras" panel discussions would enable the profs and students to reach out informally and "find" each other. Better relation should develop not only outside of class, but inside as well, as both students and profs become human beings instead of objects.

Members of the faculty, you can all help in several useful ways. Talk to the head of your department or to the newly formulated Council. Show that you care and let your students realize it. Let your students see you as the person you are, not the person you pretend to be. You have strong opinions on many subjects, opinions that you should share with others to make them better persons.

Purdue University has long been an honored name and its faculty has been known for its excellence and competence. But a faculty must prove itself over and over, in the same way man must prove himself time after time. The time of proving is now, and the actual work is not hard. All that is needed is understanding and a desire to learn to see the world through other eyes.

The Editors

Dear Administration,

For years Purdue Calumet has been growing and swelling in enrollment. For years the name Purdue has attracted students seeking an education. But many students now realize that an education is not necessarily only academic. An academic education is not a true education; an education must be based on respect, responsibility, self-knowledge and over-all personal culture.

Culture can only be reached by developing the individual through liberal arts and projects so he will realize himself and find his values as an individual.

Creating a congenial atmosphere where faculty and students alike could relax, amuse themselves and participate in discussions over relevant topics, is the goal of "Extras." Cultural growth amidst physical growth, a continuance of education that would "humanize" the students and make them better persons is not a far-fetched idea, but rather a needed one.

As members of the Administrative Staff, the backbone of any university, it is within your power to help this worthwhile project. "Extras" needs manpower and financial backing. Money has to be spent, but not extravagantly, for the project will round-off a student's education in such a way as no other project has in the history of Purdue Cal.

Purdue Calumet is a growing institution, but to grow more it must offer more, and the best offering to be made is a more complete education. The money spent on "Extras" would more than refund itself in the progress, understanding and development that would result.

The Editors

"Creating a congenial atmosphere where faculty and students alike could relax, . . .

. . . amuse themselves, . . .

(There is) ". . . a lack of communication . . ."

. . . and participate in discussions over relevant topics, is the goal of 'Extra's'."

PURDUE CAL STUDENTS AND FACULTY BACK THE PIPERS IN THEIR

HOMECOMING VICTORY

Basketball Mania Hits Purdue Cal

"The Slink" slams Lonnie again!!!

INU Slips By Cal 79-78

by Herb Ware

Friday night saw the Purdue Cal Pipers open their home Miss-ball, (oops) basketball season.

The all important fan-in-the stands saw the blitzkrieg of the hustlin' Pipers explode in an aura of heartbreak and sheer wonderment.

After an unimaginable start of bitter cold shooting, the truly blazing Pipers overcame a large deficit and surged into the lead.

With the shock of the crushing loss still ringing in our heads, it is most apparent that the mode of playing used by the Pipers will still result in a most successful season.

The scoring was well balanced while the percentages were not. The final score was Indiana Northern, 79, and Purdue Cal, 78.

Cal Hosts Third Invitational

by Herb Ware

The illustrious, hard-working Purdue Calumet Pipers basketball team is host for its third annual Purdue Calumet Invitational Tournament. The tourney is to be held Friday and Saturday, December 20 and 21 at Gavit Senior High School.

The exciting Pipers emerged the victors in the four game affair held last December. Teamwork, hustle, and sheer outstanding playing ability proved to be enough to bring home a beautiful, gigantic trophy.

Participants in this year's games will be Eureka College, St. Marys College, and Indiana Northern College, and the fast-breaking Pipers. The games begin at 7:00 p.m. The winners in the two games held on Friday will face each other for the championship and the trophy on Saturday night.

Student support is important. The men on the team realize the great work ahead of them and with the backing of fellow students, the task is sure to be successfully overcome. Come out and back our boys to victory.

Pipers Start Basketball Season With Win But Lose Second

by T.P.

Our Pipers started the season on the right foot with a 73-70 victory over Milwaukee Tech in Milwaukee.

The Pipers showed good balance in scoring with five men scoring in double figures, but it was the play of three rookies that pulled the game out. Mike Magdziarz, David Witherspoon, and Phil King came off the bench to score key baskets to help keep up the Pipers' spirits.

When Coach John Shields was asked about the game, all he could say was that "the rookies came through!!" He felt that this was a real team effort because everybody who played contributed to the victory.

Although Coach Shields would not admit it, the victory could have been by a much wider margin, had it not been for the poor officiation. I felt that this was the biggest obstacle the Pipers had to overcome and they came through in fine form.

The scoring was well distributed, with Lonnie Chase and Ken Goodwin leading with 12 points each, Willie Martin with 11, Lee Hankins and Mike Magdziarz with 10 apiece. Witherspoon and King contributed 8 and 6, respectively.

I think that Student Coach Herb Ware summed the game up the best, stating, "They didn't give up!!"

The Pipers' second game was a completely different story. The team was very unorganized as they lost to Judson College 76-68.

A near tragedy marred the game as sophomore forward Rick Hochman took a bad fall. He was carried off the court on a stretcher with a bruised shoulder, cut knees, and a slight concussion. The team hopes he will be back soon.

Lonnie Chase led the scoring with 26 points.

The Pipers have their first home game December 6 at Highland Jr. High School against Indiana Northern. The team would like to have all students and faculty there.

Students Start Booster Club; Plan Block, Buses, & Buttons

by Rick Encinosa

As the Purdue Cal basketball star streaks down the court, dribbling the ball past his dazzled opponents, a booming, encouraging roar echoes off the gymnasium walls. The player, bursting with pride, quickly makes it two more points for the score sheet.

This scene will hopefully repeat itself many times over, as the Pipers bowl over their opponents in astounding succession.

The players are ready to do their job, which last year earned them an overall 12-8 record. And the Booster Club will provide the cheers that will lead the team to the winner's throne.

Although not yet recognized as an official club, the Purdue Calumet Booster Club has about fifty members, all endowed with a magnificent lung capacity. Not only will these students provide a cheering block, all dressed in the same white, brighter-than-bright shirts, but they also plan to rent buses to follow the team anywhere it has to go.

Another idea of merit brought to life by the Booster Club is the sale of metal buttons bearing the legend, "Piper Power." The buttons would be sold at a reasonable price (probably a quarter each) to interested students.

The Booster Club is not a closed organization. All interested and energetic students can participate in sending the team down Victory Road.

Posters will be put up ahead of time, informing all when and where meetings will be held. The meetings are usually held around noon-time when most students can attend.

The Booster Club is to be commended for their great school spirit. One member, when asked his ambitions for the club in the future, answered: "I'd like to see the membership go up to three thousand."

May your dream come true, amigo.

Team Gets Ready For Homecoming

Purdue Faces Strong Opponent

by David Erickson

This year's Homecoming should be a really exciting contest, as Purdue Calumet fields its best team ever. Coach John Shield's high jumping Pipers go into the game with a one-one record after having crushed a tall Milwaukee Tech team.

In last year's two games against De Paul the Pipers broke even, winning the first one, a home game, 94-14 and losing the away game 71-69. The leading scorer for Cal in the first game was Denny Musgrave with 27 points. Following closely behind were Lonny Chase 25 points, Lee Hankins 24 points, and Kenny Goodwin who completely dominated the boards pulling down 13 key rebounds. De Paul was led by J. J. Gillim who had 34 points.

Denny Musgrave also was Cal's leading scorer in the second game, scoring 28 points. Lee Hankins was next highest with 15 points, Lonny Chase scored 8 points and Blanchard controlled the boards with 16 rebounds. Once again J. J. Gillim lead De Paul by scoring 21 points, followed by Goodee with 16 points, and last, but not least, the coach's son, Adolf Meyer, with 15 points.

The second game with De Paul appeared to be a fluke. In the first game Cal shot a torrid .600 from the field, while in the second, Cal shot only in the .300's. Another thing that hurt Cal, in the second game with De Paul, was 17 turnovers. Purdue Calumet, which averaged 93.6 points a game, just had one of those bad nights only scoring 69 points.

The feeling around the Athletic Dept. is that Purdue Calumet will "Eat De Paul alive" for Homecoming this year. This certainly seems likely as Cal, a very well coached team, has just about everybody back from last year's team.

Back from last year's team are: Lonny Chase (averaged 25.9 points a game last year), Ken Goodwin, Rich "Hock" Hockman, Ray Thilmont, Lee Hankins, Rick Volbrecht, Willie "Hot Dog" Martin, Don Rodda and Darrel Kirk.

The following boys figure to see a lot of action: Phil King, David Witherspoon, Mike Magdziarz, Joe Donahue, Tom Mav-ronicles, Dave Wine, Walt Kil, Jerry Koziattek, and Mike Mullins.

Those who want to watch our Fighting Pipers "eat De Paul alive" can see the contest at Munster High School starting at 8:00 p.m. The game will be followed by a Blast (dance) at the Armory which will last to 1:00 a.m. What a great way to spend a Friday night.

From the Sidelines

by Mike Ryba

The following excerpts are from a letter received by those students in Student Congress, ICC, and PCAC.

The letter stated - "The Council of Faculty Delegates met yesterday and discussed at length your joint request to dismiss afternoon and evening classes on Friday, December 13, for homecoming activities."

"The Council did, however, go on record as favoring homecoming and that class attendance for this day should be left up to the discretion of the individual instructor involved. Students should, therefore, check with their instructor to determine his attendance policies for this special day."

These are the two most important paragraphs in the statement. The Council could not dismiss classes because a suitable make-up date could not be found.

Well, what does all this mean for you? It just means that you can leave class that day if you really want to leave.

Now, certain people will be going to each instructor with afternoon classes on the 13th. They will ask that the class be excused that day. If so, there will be notification of it in the lounge. However, some instructors may not excuse classes till the students in the class approach them instead of outside students. Remember, this is the only time that our homecoming will fall on a Friday. Next year's will be on a Saturday in late October or November. Also all Hammond School bands, Leroy Keyes, the Golden Girl, Lafayette's majorettes, and drum crew will be here.

This will be a homecoming to remember and if you miss it, it will only be your fault because if an instructor fails to dismiss class you can always CUT (oops).

It's kind of ironic that after so many years of trying to build up school spirit, that some students may be penalized for it. Let's hope not. The least the instructors can do is let the students who desire to participate in homecoming do so. Hold classes but do not make attendance compulsory.

"Slink" Goodwin Busy Player; Combines Sports With Studies

by Rick Encinosa

Ken Goodwin is a hard man to track down. So hard to track down, in fact, that this reporter had to hitch a ride with him to Gary in order to interview him.

Goodwin, a cross between Bill Cosby and a perpetual motion machine, is a senior majoring in American history. A graduate of Gary Roosevelt, Kenny has been attending Purdue Cal for "many, many years."

When "Slink" Goodwin plays basketball as a center or forward, the ball is always screaming through the hoop. Last year Goodwin scored an average of 15.7 points per game in what was his second year as a letterman. His six-foot-three, string-bean figure, gliding effortlessly across the floor while dribbling the ball in a staccato beat, has become a familiar sight to Purdue Cal students.

Not only is Ken a full-time student and a full-time athlete, but he is also a full-time activist. He is a dues paid member of Kappa Pi Delta, Circulo Espanol, and the Political Science Club. He was a junior class senator and the Vice-President of P.C.A.C. until he became President of the Student Congress.

Ken Goodwin is always everywhere. One of his teammates claims that Ken Goodwin is not one man, "but several well-oiled, well-trained humanoid computers." Legend has it that he has attended four meetings in different places at the same time.

When asked about his future ambitions, Goodwin said: "I'm starting out as a teacher but would like to become a school administrator. I would also be interested in entering politics and becoming a Senator."

And chances are Ken Goodwin will reach the hallowed halls of Congress. For what man can compete against several well-oiled, well trained computers?
